SERIOUS CHARGES

Against Boy Held At Police Station

BREAKING, ENTERING AND LARCENY ARE ALLEGED

Damage Done To Cottages At Rye North Beach

OTHER LADS SAID TO HAVE BEEN CON- CERNED IN THE BREAKS

Harley Knox, aged sixteen years, of Epping was arrested by Officer Philbrick of Rye on Sunday and is detained at the police station until other boys connected with breaking and entering cottages at North Rye Beach and charged with larceny from those cottages can be rounded up. It is desired to learn more about the bad gang of juvenile crooks that has been engaged in the work.

The gang is charged with entering the cottages of Mrs. Mary J. Simes, Thomas D. Noyes, the Thayer cottage and others along the beach.

The police in looking up the case learned that some boys had been seen on an electric car with a saddle in a bag. Officer Shannon traced the saddle to Epping and caused the arrest of young Knox.

At the police station on Sunday, Knox told the police that there were either four or six boys concerned in the stealing and that the metal they stole was sold in Portsmouth.

Their hobby seems to have been lead pipe, and it is alleged that they pulled it out from sinks, baths and at the Simes cottage disconnected the pipe line from the cistern to the cottage and carried away sixty pounds of lead, besides ransacking the drawers and everything in sight. They tore away the plastering and woodwork to get at the pipes, which resulted in water damaging one cottage to the extent of $300 more or less.

At first, Knox informed the police that some Portsmouth boys were concerned in the matter, but the officers have failed to learn anything that would connect the boys from this city with the breaks.

The rest of the gang has been located at Epping by the police.

Knox comes from a good family and has given no end of trouble to his parents by his wrongdoing.

BASEBALL GAMES PLAYED ON SATURDAY

Mrs. West Receives Pleasing News From California

GOSSIP OF A DAY COLLECTED BY OUR CORRESPONDENT

Kittery, April 30.

The Eagle baseball team of Kittery defeated the marines in a game on the navy yard on Saturday afternoon, by a score of eleven to four.

Godfrey and Pruett were the battery for the Kittery team and Bunker and Chalm for the marines. The most striking feature of the game was Godfrey's pitching. He struck out eleven men.

A regular meeting of Odd Fellows will be held this evening at Odd Fellows' Hall.

A regular meeting of York Rebekah Lodge was held at Grange Hall on Saturday evening.

A regular meeting of Naval Lodge of Masons will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall on Wednesday evening. Two applications will be acted on and one degree will be worked.

Elmer O. Pray and Charles Prince, who have been passing vacations with their parents here, have returned to their studies at the University of Maine.

Many persons passed Sunday in gathering mayflowers, with good success in most cases.

Miss Ruth Hutchins, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. O. Farrington for the past week, returned to her home in Portland on Sunday.

George O. Wilson, who has been in Calais, Me., for the past few days, has returned.

A regular meeting of Red Men will be held at Grange Hall on Tuesday evening.

A meeting of the Philathea class of the Second Christian Church will be held this afternoon with Miss Lillian Gibson.

Letters are advertised at the post office for the period ending May 12 for Mrs. P. J. Connolly, Mrs. Fannie B. Gross, W. Laury and Daniel H. McIntyre (card).

The Odd Fellows observed an anniversary on Sunday afternoon at the Second Christian Church. They were addressed by Rev. John A. Goss of York.

Purser Fred Moulton of the Atlantic Shore line, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is doing well.

Kittery Point

In a baseball game at Gerrish Field Saturday morning between the teams of the Austin and Kittery Point grammar schools, the first named team won by a score of twelve to seven.

Mrs. Westworth Seaward, who recently underwent a surgical operation at the Cottage Hospital, Portsmouth, returned to her home on Sunday.

William Dean Howells of New York is passing a few days at his summer home here, accompanied by his son, John Meade Howells. The family will soon arrive for the summer.

Charles E. Phillips, Jr., of the F. E. Harding Fish Company of Boston, passed Sunday here with his parents.

Wallace S. Chase moved his family here from Portsmouth for the summer on Saturday.

The pile driver of Alfred Spinney or Elliot drove several piles near the pier of Capt. Thomas B. Hoyt on Saturday, to which a large floating stage will soon be secured for the summer.

Sloop Olympia, Capt. Charles Williams, is at Frisbee's dock for cleaning and painting.

Mrs. Mary J. West has received a letter from a cousin who resided in San Francisco, telling of the latter's escape from the stricken city, where all her possessions were lost, to Ross, Cal.

Dandelion greens now make their appearance and are being sought by many.

The skating rink at Frisbee's Hall has been discontinued.

THEY ASSISTED

Members of Methodist Choir Helped to Give Cantata

The chorus choir of the local Methodist Church went to Rye on Sunday evening and assisted in giving the cantata "Great Light" in the Christian Church.

This was in return for similar services rendered by the choir of the latter church on Easter Sunday evening at the State street church.

ESCAPED WITH LIFE ONLY

Charles McCarthy, brother of Mrs. John Reagan of Brewster street, is reported as having had a narrow escape in the San Francisco disaster. He lost all his possessions in the fire.

Mr. McCarthy was for some time employed in the section crew in the Portsmouth railroad yard and has only been in California about a year.

BORN

Born—in this city, April 29, to Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Pickering, a daughter.

THE WORST OVER

San Francisco Faces A Brighter Future

SUNDAY DAY OF REST FOR HER PEOPLE

Plans For The Rebuilding Of The Unfortunate City

GOVERNMENT ENDORSEMENT OF BONDS IS PROPOSED

San Francisco, April 30.—Although yesterday was the second Sabbath since the earthquake and fire of April 18, it was the first day of rest that San Francisco has experienced since the cataclysm and conflagration wiped out half of the city and made 200,000 persons homeless campers in parks or recipients of charity under the roofs of friends.

Last Sunday's conditions were too much disturbed to permit of rest for the body or peace for the mind. Last week saw the passing of the acme of grief and desolation and the dawn of order and rehabilitation. Stock was taken of the losses and plans were conceived for the future.

The loss of some 300 lives and the devastation of almost four square miles of the best part of San Francisco have now been written in history and yesterday found everyone confident of rapid progress in the rebuilding of the greater and better San Francisco.

All possible work of a municipal character was suspended yesterday and the tired officers, who for nearly two weeks have labored incessantly with little sleep to bring a semblance of order out of chaotic conditions took advantage of the lull to secure greatly needed rest and to pay some attention to pressing personal needs.

With the advent of the Sabbath came an opportunity to review the tremendous accomplishments of the last eleven days to provide remedies for defects in the task of judiciously caring for all classes of destitute, irrespective of race or creed.

Probably the most important development of the day was the promulgation by Gen. Greely of his plan for the distribution of relief supplies. Reports of theft, deception, misappropriation and extravagance have been constantly received since provisions and clothing began pouring in to succor the afflicted, and it is now believed that misuse of supplies will hereafter be impossible.

In the first days after the fire there was little check kept of foodstuffs, the main idea being to provide against want, and many abuses arose. But even when the lines were more tightly drawn, it was realized that the salvation of the situation rested with the army.

According to the plan of Gen. Greely, the unburned part of the city will be divided into seven districts in charge of army officers who will assume control of all the relief stations now established. Responsible civilians will be installed, under salary, at the sub-stations for clerical work, and daily records and checks will be kept.

As the period of extreme distress has passed the issuance of rations will at the earliest possible moment be confined to helpless women and children and refused to able men. Luxuries will be confined to infants and invalids. Rigid economy is enjoined on every officer engaged in relief work. In each of the seven districts there will be 100 stations. The amount of food to be allowed each person, with latitude for certain conditions, is specified. The allowance, in a measure, is based on the army ration.

At a meeting yesterday of James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee, and some prominent lawyers and bankers, a plan was broached for financing the city, which it is hoped will meet with the endorsement of the general committee. As it is estimated that the city has suffered a loss of $200,000,000 by fire, it is said that there is not sufficient money in San Francisco to reconstruct the city, and that the people must look elsewhere for funds to rehabilitate their destroyed fortunes.

Mr. Phelan said that if the money were borrowed through ordinary channels the rate of interest would add a burden that could not be borne under the conditions. The plan of Mr. Phelan is to frame legislation to present to Congress, asking the United States to endorse the proposed bonds of San Francisco. With this guarantee of the government the city would be able to go into the financial markets of the world and borrow the needed money at a low rate of interest on bonds to run for fifty years and secured by a mortgage on the best portion of the city.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT

William Parker Injured in a Rather Queer Manner

William Parker, employed as a member of the Boston and Maine section crew, met with a painful accident this (Monday) morning. He was engaged in cutting a rail when a piece of steel flew from under the hammer and passed completely through his left cheek, causing a bad wound.

He was attended by Dr. W. O. Junkins.

NO WARRANT FOR MUENTER

No warrant has been issued for the arrest of Erich Muentzer, the Harvard German instructor, for the murder of his wife. The court refused a warrant on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence.

FOUR SERIOUS FIRES

Conflagrations at Nashua, Haverhill, Newport and Dover

There were four serious fires in New Hampshire Saturday night or Sunday, a rather unusual record for the Granite State.

Haverhill suffered a severe blow Sunday afternoon, fire causing a loss of $30,000. A brick block in which were six stores, the postoffice and the Masonic lodge, rooms was destroyed, and, in addition, two residences, one of them of brick, were burned.

At North Newport the bobbin factory of the Draper Manufacturing Company was burned Sunday morning, causing a loss of $10,000. There was no insurance. The only portion of the plant saved was a shed in which finished bobbins valued at $4000 were stored.

Fire on Sunday evening damaged Hotel Phoenix near Nashua Junction and its contents to the extent of $5000. The fire was due to an explosion, cause unknown. A guest, Wesley R. White, was overcome by smoke and was taken from his room insensible by Police Officer E. C. Maker.

Another fire did damage to the piano store of George H. Davis in Dover late Saturday night amounting to $5000. There was slight damage to the stores of George Gage and C. L. Jenness. The building in which the Davis store was located is owned by Charles Chesley, whose loss is about $400.

SQUARE RIGGEN ARRIVES

First to Bring a Cargo Here for Four Years

The barkentine Shawmut arrived early this (Monday) morning with coal from Philadelphia, being the first square rigged vessel to discharge a cargo at this port for four years.

The craft was built at Boston in 1866 and is of 406 net tons. She has lately been engaged in the lumber and lath trade between St. John, N. B., and New York and Philadelphia. Her calling port is Boston, and she is owned by her captain, William Reicker.

NEW OVERHEAD BRIDGE

Put in Place by Boston and Maine Railroad Workmen

The carpenters and bridge crew of the Boston and Maine railroad placed a new overhead bridge in position at The Plains on Sunday.

While the work was being done, vehicles were compelled to go into the Hayes farm at an entrance from the road near the city gravel pit and came out on the other side of the bridge on the driveway near Calvary cemetery.

The June magazine is due, it being a custom of many magazine publishers to be a month or so ahead of time.

DEVELOPMENT OF FAR EAST

Since Peace Came to the Orient There Is Room for Many Enterprises.

Manchuria and Siberia are the observed of all industrial and commercial observers since the peace treaty. The land offers vast inducements for the development of electricity by water power, the country being well watered by many large streams. There are also important coal, iron and copper mines. In the last dozen years Russia has shown a disposition to develop her mines in Siberia. The opening of the railroad through Siberia has paved the way for the introduction of foreign machinery into her mines, railroads and manufacturing plants, especially since Russia is not a manufacturing or mechanical nation. Electricity already has become a more important factor in Siberia and Manchuria than is generally believed, and the Japanese invading army has further stimulated its use. Both American and English investors have secured control of some of the oil fields, and they are rapidly installing modern machinery and methods. Both Siberia and Manchuria are in great need of machinery. Both the Russians and Japanese appreciate this, and will compete for supremacy in meeting the demand. The building of railroads in Manchuria is one of the most promising features of this prospective revival of trade. Those who have made a close study of the situation opine that within ten years every city of importance in these two countries will have electric transportation.

FOR FUTURE REFERENCE.

Groom Insisted on Having a Phonographic Record of the Marriage.

Just at the beginning of a wedding ceremony in an Allegheny church recently a tall man, bearing a box in his hand, attempted to enter the chancel gate and take a position behind some palms in close proximity to the clergyman and the couple. The sexton hurried after the intruder and tapped him on the shoulder, relates the Pittsburgh Gazette.

"What are you doing there with that strange box? What's in it, anyway?"

"A recording phonograph," said the man. "I came here by appointment."

Just then the bridegroom, hearing the confab, turned around and greeted the man with the talking machine.

"Scuse me, parson," he said, "but I want Jim, my friend here, to take a record of a certain part of the ceremony. I've got good reasons, sir."

The clergyman frowned, but grew tolerant at the bridegroom's pleading tone. Seeing that the innovation would be unnoticed, he went on. At the conclusion of the ceremony an appreciative smile wreathed the cleric's face as he heard the husband whisper to his life partner:

"Now, Lizzie, if you get scrappy after marriage I can soon prove that you promised to obey me!"

SOME HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Simple Suggestions from "Smart Set," Which May or May Not Work.

To make biscuits light—drench with gasoline and ignite before serving.

How to keep servants—chloroform them and lock in the cellar.

Quickest way to get rid of peddlers—buy all they have.

How to remove fruit stains from linen—use scissors.

To keep rats out of the pantry—place all food in the cellar.

To entertain women visitors—let them inspect all your private papers.

To entertain men visitors—feed the brutes.

To keep the children at home—lock up all their clothes.

To keep hubby at home—hide his toupee.

In order to prevent accidents in the kitchen—fill the kerosene can with water.

To stop leaks in pipes—send for the nearest plumber.

To economize on coal—get a gas range.

To test the freshness of eggs—drop them on some hard surface.

To propitiate the janitor—it can't be done.

Franklin and Germany.

Few Americans know what our German fellow citizens brought out in their celebration of the bicentennial of Franklin's birth, that he printed the first German newspaper on this continent in 1732, and that later from his office were issued important German books. Franklin touched modern civilization on almost all sides. In 1766 he visited Germany, and a book by a German professor, based on conversations with him, made him a hero to the young literary men and liberals of the German "awakening." Including the poet Goethe.—Youth's Companion.

Woman's Love.

"Love," remarked the moralizer, "is the strongest passion of a woman's heart."

"That's right," rejoined the demoralizer. "She's got to love something, either a new bonnet, a pug dog, a baby or a man."—Chicago Daily News.

Forgot Himself.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Why, he's the stingiest man in town.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Don't talk like that. I'm afraid you're forgetting yourself.—Yonkers Statesman.

Ancient Order.

The Augustinian Order was established in the tenth century. It has many houses in England and Scotland. In the United States there are over 150 members of the order, having charge of 27 community houses and churches, one novitiate and three colleges. It is to this order that Cardinal Martinielli, former papal delegate to the United States, belongs; also Cardinal Rampolla, who is the cardinal protector of the order at Rome.

Chinaman's Choice.

A professor in a western university one day, while walking with a friend in San Francisco, became involved in an argument as to which was the handsomer man of the two. They agreed to leave the question to the decision of a Chinaman who was seen approaching them. The matter being laid before him, the oriental considered long and carefully. Then he announced in a tone of finality, "Both are worse."

Wealthiest Princess.

Queen Louise, wife of the new king of Denmark, is the wealthiest princess in Europe. She inherited $15,000,000 from her maternal grandfather, Prince Frederick of the Netherlands, as well as the bulk of the fortune of her father, King Charles of Sweden and Norway. Her grandmother refused the hand of Napoleon and married M. Bernadotte, afterward Marshal Bernadotte and king of Sweden.

Seaweed of Norway.

Along the shores of Joderen, on the southwest coast of Norway, the seaweed grows in veritable forests; not the common grass variety but actual trees from five to six feet in height, with stems like ropes and leaves as tough as leather. It begins to sprout in March and April and gradually covers the ocean bed with a dense, impenetrable brush.

Diseases of Doctors.

In 1905 "heart disease" was the most frequent cause of death among physicians, with 203 cases, out of a total of 2,045 in the United States and Canada. Cerebral hemorrhage 153, and pneumonia 141 cases follow in frequency. Accidents numbered 72, as compared to 95 in the previous year. Suicides were 46, instead of 36, in 1904.

Growth of Rangoon.

The recent visit of the prince of Wales to Burma has attracted notice to the wonderfully rapid growth in size and prosperity of Rangoon during the last 20 years. Then it had a population of only 20,000, whereas to-day it has nearly a quarter of a million, and a trade inferior only to that of Calcutta and Bombay.

How to Treat Vivisectionists.

The thing to do with those scientific investigators who are half killing dogs and then turning them out in the streets to die of exhaustion, says the Indianapolis News, is to interest them in that branch of geology which has to do with the reduction of large rocks to small fragments by means of a heavy hammer.

Settled the Auto.

A man bought an automobile from a dealer at Santa Rosa Cal., and started for a town called Occidental. The machine did not take the grades as well as Mr. Davidson had expected, and on his arrival at Occidental he borrowed an ax and chopped his auto to pieces.

An Exception.

"Of course," began the man with the scientific turn of mind, "there is nothing quicker than thought—"

"In woman there is," interrupted the chronic bachelor, "she always speaks before she thinks."—Philadelphia Press.

Illiterate Soldiers.

In order to test the quality of mind of French soldiers, a set of questions—a kind of "general paper"—was sent to 62 soldiers at random. Of the 62, 17 could not write, and so did not answer at all.

Few Australians.

There are only a few Australians distributed throughout the United States, and their number is so small that in most of the official bulletins they come under the head of "unclassified."

Equally Hazardous.

There seems to be little choice in hazardousness of occupation between being a diplomat at Caracas and an admiral in the Russian navy.—N. Y. Tribune.

Too Bad!

Just as the world was beginning to smile indulgently on M. Fallieres, the new president, came the announcement that he writes poetry.

An Observation.

We have noticed that if a community is notable for a particularly large family the family usually belongs to a preacher.—Topeka Capital.

Quite the Contrary.

Schoolmaster—Now, Rogers, what are you doing? Learning something? Rogers—No, sir; I'm listening to you, sir.—Stray Stories.

Not a Time for Boasting.

The only time a man never overrates himself is when he stacks up against the custom house inspectors.—Philadelphia Record.

Keeping Busy.

Contentment consists in having a good deal to do—and doing it.

TRAVELED IN A TRANCE.

American Loses Consciousness in California and Regains It in Australia.

A curious case of lapse of memory has just been revealed here on the arrival from the northern districts of New South Wales of an American, whose last remembrance was of Los Angeles, Cal. The American's story, says a Sydney correspondent of the London Mail, is vouched for by two Sydney doctors, who have investigated the circumstances. The mysterious traveler, whose name is requested to withhold, left Parahoe, in California a few days before last, Easter, intending to join his wife and family at Los Angeles. He remembers arriving there, but has no recollection of what happened afterward.

He awoke to find himself lying under a tree in the Australian bush, and was immensely astonished at seeing around him many unknown forms of vegetation. He noticed that his hands were hard and rough, though he had never consciously done a day's hard work. A bullock-driver passed him shortly after his awakening, and he at once inquired the way to Los Angeles. The man stared in astonishment, and answered that Hill End was the name of the nearest township.

The man without a memory thereupon asked the date, and was told that it was late in October, and that he was in New South Wales. He worked his way to Sydney, a distance of some hundreds of miles, and is now trying to obtain employment here to get the money to return to his family. He is in total ignorance as to their whereabouts and as to his own doings during the six months between April and October.

MUSIC A POWERFUL TONIC.

Clears Cobwebs from the Brain and Inspires a Higher Train of Thought.

Good music is a powerful tonic to many people, especially those suffering from melancholia. It lifts them out of their gloom, dispels gloom and despondency, kills discouraged feelings and gives new hope, new life and new vigor. It seems to put a great many people into proper tune. It gives them the keynote of truth and beauty, strikes the chords of harmony, dispels discord from the life, scatters clouds and brings sunshine.

All good music is a character builder, because its constant suggestion of harmony, order and beauty puts the mind into a normal attitude. Music clears the cobwebs out of many minds, so that they can think better, act better and live better. Some writers are dependent upon music for their inspiration and their moods. Somehow it brings the muse to them. It adds brilliancy to the brain and facility to the pen which they cannot seem to get in any other way. Good music seems to give us a touch of the divine and to put us in contact with divinity. It drives out evil thoughts, making us ashamed of them. It lifts us above petty annoyances and little worries of life and gives us a glimpse of the ideal which the actual is constantly obscuring.

ANIMALS THAT ARE EPICURES

Dumb Creatures That Deserve to Be Classed with Human Kind.

Do you know what that means? Who was Epicurus?

He was a Greek philosopher of ancient times. And he was and is somewhat misunderstood, says the Philadelphia Record. He led a perfectly temperate and blameless life, though his very name has come to stand for indulgence; an epicure is defined as a luxurious and dainty eater.

The following birds and animals are designated as epicurean:

The busy bee.
The dreaded wasp.
The gray millet.
The sadly hunted osprey.
The lovely hummingbird.
The long necked giraffe.
The aard wolf of South Africa.
The ant eater, which looks like a spruce fir cone.

The manatee, which is eight feet long and has a triangular upper lip.
The sperm whale, along with other odontocetes, or toothed cetaceans, is so-called because it possesses true teeth instead of whalebone.

Exhausted Gold Mine.

Bonanza, one of the richest mines of the richest gold fields in the world, and its career are closing. By the end of January this brilliant successful African mine will find its block of ground practically worked out, leaving the pillars and the cleanings. In all probability after then it will not be possible to keep the mill running continuously. And the profit during the remaining period will be subject to considerable fluctuations. During its life of 11 years the Bonanza has produced from its 11 claims, with a modest crushing plant, over $10,000,000 worth of gold, or ten times its capital and paid dividends ranging from 50 to 115 per cent. The total dividend record aggregating nearly 600 per cent, on its capital of approximately $6,000,000.

Distinguished.

"Is Mr. Seards a man of scientific distinction?"

"Yes, indeed," answered Miss Cayenne. "He has so many college degrees that when he sends in the card you can't be sure whether it is his name or a problem in algebra."—Chicago Journal.

No Place for Him.

House Agent—Yes, sir, I've got the very thing that will suit you—beautiful house and fine situation.

Client—Fine situation, eh?

"Splendid situation, sir."

"Healthy place?"

"Healthy! I should think so. Why, sir, in that district sickness is practically unknown."

"Ah, well, then, the house won't suit me. You see, I'm a medical man."—Chicago Journal.

TRAVELING SALESMEN.

How the Comfort of Those in England Is Looked After by Hotels.

"Traveling men in England have special dining rooms, special rates and special lots of things," said E. K. Simmons of Manchester, England, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. "When you go into the lobby of an English hotel you may be surprised to find a great open fire burning in one end of the room. Great comfortable chairs will be found about the lobby, and you need not exclaim if you see several salesmen smoking long pipes and resting their stockinged feet upon large footstools. Empty shoes can be found in many portions of the room."

"The English lobby is a parlor or sitting room, a place of comfort, and in no instance bears the stiff, varnished, embossed appearance of your American hostilities. When you go to the dining room you may be surprised to hear the clerk ask you if you are a traveling man. If you are you are ushered into a snugly but homely furnished room containing one long table. The apartment is more like a private dining room, and everybody is everybody else's friend."

"The meal is especially served, the waiters show especial deference and everything bears a tone of home life. As each man leaves the table he is seen to drop a halfpenny in a little box. This is an unwritten law of the land, and the money thus collected goes to pay for schools and orphanages for the children of traveling salesmen who die without leaving sufficient means for their support. Several of these schools and orphanages are maintained throughout England."

"English traveling salesmen take life easier than do the men following a similar occupation in America. They never think of entering a man's store with a lighted cigar, and they would as soon forget to wear a collar or coat as to expect to do business with a man without having their shoes carefully polished. All hotels look to this and a 'boots' gets your shoes each night, marks them with chalk, polishes them and returns them before you are awake the next day."

HIS EVASIVE PROMISE.

In Renouncing Whisky Bridegroom Did Not Include All Intoxicants.

The bride exacted but one promise from her husband when they were married. This was that he should not drink whisky. It is needless to state, relates the Baltimore News, that when she made him promise this she thought she had made him a teetotaler. Whisky, to her mind, covered the whole field.

One night, shortly after the honeymoon was over, when the bridegroom came home and kissed his new wife, his breath was unmistakably redolent of something alcoholic.

"You've been drinking," replied the little lady, aghast.

"Only a gin drinker," replied the bridegroom, but watching anxiously the effects of this announcement.

"Oh!" said the bride, relieved, "I thought it was something that might make you drunk."

It was two or three days later that the bride burst in upon the groom with fire in her eye. "You have deceived me," she gasped. "You promised me you would not drink whisky, and, then after all you went and drank a gin rickety, and Mrs. Brown tells me they are the same thing, and I shall never trust you again."

Then the bridegroom began to explain, but he has not yet succeeded in convincing his unworshipful spouse that in renouncing whisky he did not renounce the whole family of inebriating drinks, and he's very careful now about his cloves.

Indian Superstition.

In Sarawak persons of the Milanau tribe have a practice of depositing a large leaf, peculiarly folded, at the spot where the accident has happened, to conciliate the powers of evil. A man hurt himself in the rajah's garden, and some Milanaus employed there hastened to perform the ceremony of propitiation. The present rajah, Sir Charles Brooks, tells what followed in his "Ten Years in Sarawak." He disliked to see this litter on the path and told the gardeners to remove it. But the Milanaus said that the arm of anyone touching the leaf would swell. So the rajah threw it away himself—and two days afterward he had a painful swelling in his arm, which lasted a fortnight.

Enemy of the Octopus.

Conger eels hunt for the octopus and, when found, proceed to browse on its limbs. The octopus tries to hug the slippery, slimy conger tight, but in vain, and, finding its limbs growing less, discharges its ink in the face of the foe and, under cover of the turbid water beats a hasty retreat. It is to escape the too pressing attention of its foes that the octopus possesses the power of changing its color to correspond with that of its surroundings.

No Place for Him.

House Agent—Yes, sir, I've got the very thing that will suit you—beautiful house and fine situation.

Client—Fine situation, eh?

"Splendid situation, sir."

"Healthy place?"

"Healthy! I should think so. Why, sir, in that district sickness is practically unknown."

"Ah, well, then, the house won't suit me. You see, I'm a medical man."—Chicago Journal.

Lucky for Him.

"What do you think of the man who stole that immense sum of money?"

"Well," answered Broncho Bob, "I suppose we'll have to go ahead and spend time and money on a trial. It's lucky for him it wasn't a hoax."—Washington Star.

Unappreciative.

Three Germans were sitting at luncheon recently and were overheard discussing the second marriage of a mutual friend, when one of them remarked:

"I tell you what. A man what marries de second time don't deserve to have lost his first wife"—Life.

Judge and Juror.

Elmer had had company all day, and a sleeper boy was never put to bed. Just as his mother finished undressing him he said: "Mamma, I said my prayers on the way upstairs, so as to save time."

WHY SHE SAT QUIET.

There was an Expression of Opinion When the Fond Mama Left.

A certain gushing lady took her four-year-old daughter to a photographer. The little one could not be made to sit still. The camera man was as nice and suave as he could be, called the child all the sweet, endearing names he could think of, while using every device of gentle persuasion to make the little wiggler keep still. Finally he turned to the despairing mother and said:

"Madam, if you will leave your darling with me for a few moments, I think I can succeed in taking her lovely face to perfection."

The mother withdrew for a short time. Soon the photographer summoned her and exhibited a highly satisfactory negative. When they reached home the mother asked:

"Nellie, what did that nice gentleman say to you when I left you alone with him?"

"Well, he said," lisped Nellie, "if don't thit sthll, you ugly, squint-eyed monkey, I'll thake the life out of oyar trembling cacath." Then I that very sthll, mamma!"

Paddy's Letter.

Those fond of Irish bulls may find some amusement in the following letter, which was written by an amorous swain of the Emerald Isle to his lady fair.

"My Darlin' Peggy:—I met you last night and you never came! I'll meet you again to-night, whether you come or whether you stop away. If I'm there first, sure I'll write my name on the gate to tell you of it, and if it's you that's first, why rub it out, darlin' and no one will be the wiser. I'll never fail to be at the trystin' place, Peggy, for, faith, I can't keep away from the spot where you are, whether you're there or whether you're not."

Her Explanation.

Teacher—"For a correct understanding of this sentence, 'They cleaned up $75 between them,' it is necessary to explain that there was no literal act of cleaning up. The words convey the idea of distribution, or parcelling out, and may relate to the division of the proceeds of a financial transaction or the spoils of a questionable or dishonest venture. In short, the phrase is peculiar to the language and may be classed as idiomatic."

Tommy Tucker—I understand the sentence all right, but I don't know what your talking about.—Chicago Tribune.

Too Generous.

George—I have been invited to a "flower party" at the Pinkies. What does it mean?

Jack—That's one of the newest ideas this season. It is a new form of birthday party. Each guest must send Miss Pinkie a bouquet containing as many flowers as she is years old, and the flowers must have a meaning. Study the language of flowers before ordering.

Florist's Boy (a few hours later)—A gentleman left an order for twenty of these flowers to sent to Miss Pinkie with his card.

Florist—He's one of my best customers. Ad eight or ten more for good measure.

Nothing Wasted.

An old slave named Sambo had been in the habit of stealing his master's chickens. For a long time he escaped detection, but was at last caught in the act and brought to his master.

"Now, you black scoundrel," said his master, "are you not ashamed of yourself for stealing my chickens?"

"Well, massa," answered Sambo, "I've don't see very much wrong in it, for I'm your property and the chickens are your property, and I only put one piece of property into another. You certainly got less chicken, but you got more nigger."

A Stern Necessity.

A small girl in a Harlem apartment was observed by a friend of the family eating a certain cereal preparation. She seemed to eat sadly. "Don't you like that, my dear?" inquired the friend. "Not partic'larly," replied the little maid. "Why do you eat it, then?" The daughter of the house paused with spoon on edge of bowl. "It's got to be eaten," she answered, gravely. "The grocery man gives mamma a rag doll for every two packages she buys, and it's got to be eaten every morning." And she continued to eat the cereal.

Lucky for Him.

"What do you think of the man who stole that immense sum of money?"

"Well," answered Broncho Bob, "I suppose we'll have to go ahead and spend time and money on a trial. It's lucky for him it wasn't a hoax."—Washington Star.

THE GARDEN OF THE WORLD

"New Hampshire, the Garden of the World," might well have been the title of the article in the May issue of the Century Magazine, in which Frances Duncan writes of the gardens of Cornish, this state. Her words apply as well to other towns than Cornish, and perhaps not least to those of Rockingham county. She writes in part:

"It is because garden art, more than any other, is at the mercy of the jolly that when one looks for signs of better times he looks not towards those places where the most money has been spent, but rather where the art instinct is the strongest, and where desecrating and devaluing standards do not obtain. For this reason one of the most hopeful spots which any believer in the future of American garden art can visit is the little New Hampshire town of Cornish."

Aside from satisfying the mere liking of the eye, the Cornish gardens are livable, lovable spots, on very intimate terms with their owners. One sometimes sees rooms wherein art has been so breathlessly pursued that the position of each object is the result of the most careful consideration, the most intense and pious care, until one feels as if no chair or table would dare to move an inch for fear of disturbing the color scheme; and garden and grounds are done in like manner. At Cornish there is nothing of this strained and uncomfortable art. A garden is not sacred and a thing apart, to be gazed at from the drawing room windows or strolled through occasionally with an admiring visitor. It is simply an outgrowth of the house, an out-of-door living room, to be used and changed if one pleases, until one finds the best possible arrangement."

SOMEBODY IS BLUFFING

It looks as if somebody, whose interests might suffer from immigration restriction, is bluffing mightily in making the statement that immigration this year is going to be less than it was last. The first three months have shown an increase over last year, and there is no evident reason why the increase will not continue through the year.

We append a table showing a few striking facts concerning the present alien immigration:

	1904	1905
Total number of aliens admitted,	812,870	1,026,499
Note that these totals do not include citizens nor "aliens in transit," of whom there were,	159,522
Percent of total immigration destined for the four states of Illinois, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania,	64.6	65.3
Percent of total immigration destined for the six states of Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and New Jersey,	73.6	76
Percent of total immigration destined for the southern and western states,	30.1	27

Number of literates over 14 in total immigration, 172,856 239,091
 Percent of literate in total immigration over 14 years of age, 21.3 23.3
 Don't you think this table makes a pretty good anti-alien argument?

BIRDS' EYE VIEWS

Bill was sent to Congress.

We heard the news, and when it was told his folks, they said, relieved, "It might have been the Senate!"

Football has been abandoned by the colleges. But this is only for the season.

Graftless politics should be the next great invention to follow the wireless telegraph.

The double-window has given way to the fly screen, back of which is introduced the insulting rubber plant.

Now do you suppose there is really any United States Senator or Congressman who can tell you just when his term will expire?

Sarah Bernhardt's next farewell visit to the United States—may it be as successful and its predecessors, and may it flourish and multiply!

The difference between literacy and intelligence is becoming no fine distinction. Once pointed out, it is too obvious to ever again escape notice.

A Long Island woman is collecting alimony at sixteen. What a suggestion for a Laura Jean Libbey novel. "Alimony at Sixteen" ought to sell like hot cakes.

The small boy can now proceed to bustle for holiday and circus coin, just as his ancestors did before him. Only we of the older generation know how much better the holidays and circuses were in our time!

And they even claim that Franklin was aware of, and even successfully practiced the rudiments of, wireless telegraphy in his day. Poor Marconi will soon find his cupboard bare of honors if this keeps on.

The bomb-proofsky is not quite so necessary, if one may judge from outside appearances, as it was in Russia a few months ago. This may be the result of Premier Witte's work, or it may be Butcher Orloff's; one finds the question difficult to decide.

Bankhead is the name of the man who came in second best in the race with Richmond Pearson Hobson for the Democratic nomination for congressman from Alabama. Some fear has been expressed that Hobson's name hereafter may be Bighead.—Bridford Journal.

Folks needn't worry on the latter score. It is quite a drop from hero of the Merrimac to mere Congressman.

OUR EXCHANGES

Was It for This We Met

Was it for this we met—to part like this?
 Was it for this we loved—to lose this way!
 Can this be April reddening into May.
 And will the woods grow green, and never miss
 Beneath their boughs the murmur of our bliss,
 The happy children of a Summer day?
 Was it for this we loved—to lose this way?
 Was it for this we met—to part like this?

O little haunted river, will you run
 Still through the trees and leap the rocks in foam,
 Yet hear no more our voices blent with yours?
 If thus the painted scene of love endures,
 Earth's floor of flowers and heaven's azure dome,
 O can the play be ended, quite, quite done?
 —Richard Le Gallienne in the May Metropolitan Magazine.

THE MAGAZINES

Everybody's

Most notable, perhaps, among several notable articles in the May Everybody's Magazine, is Lindsay Denison's "Making Good at Panama." Mr. Denison's is the first authoritative story of the work being done on the canal.

"The Condemned Meat Industry," is a trenchant reply by Upton Sinclair to J. Ogden Armour's defense of the Beef Trust.

Part II of "The Coal Trust, the Labor Trust, and the People Who Pay," by Hartley Davis is particularly timely just now.

Thomas W. Lawson recounts a recent experience with Heinze.

Vance Thompson draws a delightful word picture of Armand Fallieres in "The New President of France."

The fiction in this number of Everybody's is well worthy of the rest of the magazine. Rex E. Beach concludes his great novel of Alaska, "The Spoilers."

A facsimile of President Roosevelt's letter to the government officers and employees at Panama concerning Mr. Denison's visit makes a most striking cover.

Quarterly Journal of Economics

The last issue of the "Quarterly Journal of Economics" contains a timely article on "The Trunk Line Rate System," by Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard University. Professor Ripley's "Trusts, Pools, and Corporations," recently published by Ginn and company, is already generally regarded as one of the standard reference books on the subject.

McClure's

McClure's begins a new volume with May. If the forthcoming numbers are to be gauged by this first one the readers of this magazine have a rare treat ahead of them. Two universally important and interesting series begin: Rudyard Kipling's "Robin Goodfellow—His Friends," and the Life Insurance articles by Burton J. Hendrick. In "The Centurion of the Thirtieth," Kipling comes back to us more the wizard than ever.

"The Story of Life Insurance" for the first time gives both sides of the case, and contains, in a simple condensed form, the information which for a year we have been trying to glean. George Edward Woodberry contributes another chapter to his "Great Masters of Literature," throwing entirely new lights on John Milton. "The Flight from the Fatherland," the installment of Carl Schurz's "Reminiscences of a Long Life" gives us another chapter of true and exciting adventure. Clara Morris, in "An Actress in Guard us some of the innermost secrets of a successful actress's soul. The stories are unusually good.

Collier's

Collier's Weekly, excellent as it has always been, has attained a higher standard than ever of late and promises to be better still in the future. Frederick Palmer, who has been everywhere and seen everything, has gone to San Francisco. Richard Harding Davis is to tell us all about the Isle of Pines and is contributing a series on "Real Soldiers of Fortune." W. J. Ghent writes of existing social conditions and the probable changes. Norman Hapgood's fine editorials and Samuel E. Moffett's valuable department, "What the World is Doing," continue to be attractive features of the weekly issues.

THE THEATRICAL FOLK

Annie Russell Tonight

Fresh from her London triumph in Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara" Annie Russell will be seen this evening at Music Hall in Paul Kester's play, "Friend Hannah." Miss Russell is the only American actress who has achieved a great personal triumph in London in a play that was relatively speaking a failure.

Annie Russell

with English audiences. It is the custom to assert and usually the truth that "The play's the thing." However, in the case of Miss Russell in "England it has on the contrary been the dainty, charming actress with her flower-like beauty and gentle womanhood who has achieved the success. London yielded to the gentle charm of the quaint little maiden; it took her into its critical but faithful heart.

As "Friend Hannah" in Paul Kester's play of that name, Miss Russell presents a charming picture of the time of George III., telling a beautiful love story with an undercurrent of sentimental self-sacrifice. There will be a mingling of tears and laughter.

Brand New This Year

At Music Hall next Friday evening, "Peck's Bad Boy" will put in his annual appearance dressed up in brand new scenery and costumes. He will also have an entirely new play, new songs, new dances and new and novel specialties. Duets, trios and quartets from the popular operas will be well sung and properly and handsomely dressed. It is not the same old play we have seen for years, but brand new from start to finish.

Rev. Albert E. George Reviews "As Ye Sow"

This is what Rev. Albert E. George has to say of Rev. John Snyder's "As Ye Sow":

"A strong play—strong in the manner of presenting—the contrast of the good and evil sides of life, and strong in making one sensitive of the influence of the good side. It is a clean play. It indicates how well the stage can become a moral agent in its own unique way. Why should not the stage be a moral agent? The old prejudice has died away and we are not arguing about its teaching power. It is there, and only needs a play like this to call it forth. The church and the drama have a common work. They have lived too long in separate fields.

They are to be close neighbors. "As Ye Sow" is a play everyone should see and in seeing rejoice to know that a Christian can go to the theatre and can, in the incidents of a dear old Cape Cod life, find the same principles that the pulpit has stood for so long."

LOST FIRST GAME

Portsmouth High School Nine Defeated at Wolfboro

The Portsmouth High School baseball team met its first defeat of the season at the hands of the strong Brewster Academy team at Wolfboro on Saturday afternoon. The boys played a plucky uphill game without Capt. Kilburn, but their opponents were too much for them.

Except in the first inning, the lads from this city played a clean fielding game. Notwithstanding the difference in the error columns, the Portsmouth team was fully as fast in the field as the Brewster nine, but was outclassed at the bat.

The score:
 Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 R H E
 B. A. 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 12 12 0
 P. H. S. 10 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 3 4
 Batteries—Henneman and Foote; Quinn and Tenness.

But eight innings were played, that the Portsmouth team might catch a train.

WON TEN DOLLAR PRIZE SUNDAY

The second prize of ten dollars in "The Great Auto Chase" cipher conducted by the Boston American on Sunday was Mrs. Carrie B. Collis of Elwyn avenue. The simple solution of yesterday's cipher apparently lay in the numbering of the alphabet from one to twenty-six, first from A to Z, then from Z to A.

A good many boats were on the river yesterday.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary truth that "The play's the thing." However, in the case of Miss Russell in "England it has on the contrary been the dainty, charming actress with her flower-like beauty and gentle womanhood who has achieved the success. London yielded to the gentle charm of the quaint little maiden; it took her into its critical but faithful heart.

As "Friend Hannah" in Paul Kester's play of that name, Miss Russell presents a charming picture of the time of George III., telling a beautiful love story with an undercurrent of sentimental self-sacrifice. There will be a mingling of tears and laughter.

UP IN A BALLOON

C. J. Edwards Guest Of Titled Aeronaut

IN SUCCESSFUL SATURDAY ASCENT FROM PITTSFIELD

Charles Jerome Edwards of Brooklyn, N. Y., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Wendell of Pleasant street, was one of the guests of Count Henri de la Vaux of Paris who made his third balloon ascension in America on Saturday afternoon from Pittsfield, Mass. The other guest was Capt. Homer W. Hedges, president of the Aero Club of America.

Capt. Hedges and Mr. Edwards, representing a syndicate, purchased of Count de la Vaux the Centaure balloon, capacity 55,000 cubic feet, for $1850, and the L'Orient balloon, 35,000 cubic feet, for $1350. They will pay the 45 percent. duty on the balloons, which brings the total cost of the airships up to $3640.

These balloons will be kept in Pittsfield for the use of members of the Aero Club of America, who now number 270.

The balloon used on Saturday by the Count was the Centaure and was most successful. Mr. Edwards telegraphs that the huge balloon went up gradually in the air for 300 feet then it sailed southward over Stockbridge. There was a slight breeze from the north and not a cloud in the sky, and so remarkably clear was the atmosphere that sightseers on the Wendell Hotel roof watched the beautiful spectacle for an hour and a half. Mr. Edwards says they made one drop of 4000 feet in three minutes, and it was a wonderful sensation. Count de la Vaux handled the Centaur with rare skill. They recognized the villages of Winsted and Litchfield, and as they were not familiar with the country further down the valley the count decided to descend, although they could have stayed up much longer. A peculiar sensation was their inability to hear a sound except the croaking of frogs for five minutes after they landed. The effect of the rarified atmosphere was such they could hardly understand each other talk.

The balloon went up 7000 feet, travelled sixty miles and alighted safely on a desolate farm.

Hundreds of people were out in every town to watch the Centaure, and although the aeronauts came to Pittsfield unheralded it was a half holiday event. It was the first aerial journey made by Messrs. Hedges and Edwards and the last Count de la Vaux is to make in America.

Notes

Schooner Edward H. Cole, Rogers, has been chartered to load coal at Norfolk for the navy yard. Her capacity is 2600 tons of coal.

Schooner Alice M. Colburn, McLeod, which arrived here on Friday from Norfolk, is leaking considerably and on this account brought 500 tons less cargo than usual. She has 2100 tons aboard.

Schooner Independent, Farrow, which discharged coal at the navy yard, was towed to the lower harbor on Saturday to await orders.

Tug Ira, Abrams, towed schooner Jonathan Cone to Exeter on Sunday with the first cargo of coal of the season for that city.

Tug Nellie of the York Harbor dredging fleet brought a scow here Saturday night which was loaded with coal at the North End docks and returned this morning. The tug has been sold by her New Bedford owners to the dredging company.

NO DELAY

In the Transportation of Freight Over
Union Pacific Lines

The Herald is informed that the Union Pacific railroad is perfectly able to move freight to and from all Pacific coast points with facility and dispatch. It is making every effort to forward food and other supplies to San Francisco, but is able to handle all commercial business as well.

A report has been circulated, it is said by the officials of lines terminating on the north Pacific coast, that the great number of relief trains has made it impossible for the Union Pacific to attend to its freight traffic. This report is entirely erroneous.

AMBITION THAT COLLAPSED

Man Who Became Famous Lost All Interest in the Place of His Birth.

There was once a young man who came from a wee bit of a town, and whenever he would tell folks where he was raised they would ask him where that was, relates the Cleveland Leader.

It irked the young man to find that his native town was such an inconspicuous place, and he said to himself: "I will hustle around and make myself famous, and then Blink Center will get some notice, for after I have become a celebrity everybody will learn that I was born and raised there."

So for years and years he climbed the path of fame, until at last his name was known in every house in the land.

And then he died, and folks talked a good deal about him, and his life was cited to the young people as an example of what persistence and industry accomplish.

At last his fame grew so lustrous that it was necessary to organize a society bearing his name.

Then the society got to work and looked up his birthplace.

Did the society locate it at Blink Center?

No; for nobody at Blink Center could remember anything of such a family as his. So the brass tablet in memory of his birth was affixed to a tumble-down house in the outskirts of a city 100 miles from Blink Center.

However, it was easier for excursionists to get there than to go to Blink Center on a jerkwater railway. Yet this teaches us that all is vanity and that we often cut a good deal of ice without first building an ice-house.

MINIATURE AUTOMOBILES.

Some of Bronze Designed for Ornamental Pieces Are Costly.

The automobile has been reproduced in miniature in almost innumerable forms and sizes, made of metal and of basket work and of cardboard, and designed for various uses, as for toys, for candy boxes, for flower holders and so on, or it may be solely for ornament. Many of these miniature reproductions have been accurate and elaborate in design and finish and some of them have been pretty costly.

Among reproductions of the last named sort, designed for ornamental pieces, are miniature automobiles in bronze, which may be perhaps a foot in length over all and are in appearance very realistic and striking. One, for example, shows a touring car, correct in design and proportion and worked out true in detail, supported on a low pedestal representing a bit of roadway. It is a very handsome and natural appearing little bronze auto, looking fit to step into and start up.

Another miniature auto of this sort in bronze represents a runabout moving at great speed along a road. It contains figures of two men bending forward against the rushing wind and driving the machine for all they know how—an impressionist piece this.

Some of these miniature autos in bronze come from Paris, some from Vienna, and some of them sell for $100 and more.

POINTING OUT DISTINCTION

Statement of Former Slave Woman Which Meant No Disrespect.

The following anecdote recently brought to Richmond by a Georgian woman is a true story, says the Baltimore Sun.

A Boston couple were recreating near Augusta and met an old negro woman to whom they took a fancy. They invited her to pay them a visit and the black woman accepted, especially as her expenses were paid. In due time she arrived in Boston and was installed in the house of the white folks. She occupied one of the best rooms and ate at the same table with her host and hostess. At one of the meals the hostess said:

"Mrs. Jones, you were a slave, weren't you?"

"Yes, marm," replied Mrs. Jones. "I belonged to Mar's Robert Howell."

"I suppose he never invited you to eat at his table," remarked the Boston woman.

"No, honey, dat he ain't," replied Mrs. Jones. "My master was a gentleman. He ain't never let no nigger set at de table 'long er him."

And in making this speech she meant no disrespect to her hostess. She meant merely to point out a natural distinction.

Book Not Yet Written.

No sooner does a writer deliver himself of some study of abnormal social conditions or make some pathetic exhibit of a cancerous growth on the business body of the country than he is hailed as the true interpreter of the American spirit and the most accurate photographer of American qualities. The great American novel is discovered by these critics a dozen times a year.—Cleveland Leader.

More Like History.

An enthusiastic citizen of Chicago was one day showing a visitor the wonders of the lake front. "A few years ago," said he, "the lake extended inland far beyond where we are standing. I tell you there isn't a town in the world that's making history as fast as Chicago is." "It looks to me more like making geography," replied the unemotional stranger.

FOR PASSING BAD BILL

Italian Arrested on Saturday in Lawrence, Mass.

The police of Lawrence, Mass., on Saturday arrested an Italian, Domenico Deiorio, charged with passing a counterfeit five dollar bill like those passed here.

It is believed by the Lawrence police that they have clues which will lead to further arrests and they think that there is considerable bad money in the city. They are following their clues closely.

OBSEQUIES

The funeral of Edgar A. F. Chick was held at half-past two o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the family home, 2 Pickering street. Rev. Lucius H. Thayer officiating. Interment was in Harmony Grove cemetery. Undertaker H. W. Nickerson in charge.

Funeral services over the body of Edwin C. Berry, conducted by Rev. C. O. Farnham, were held at two o'clock this (Monday) afternoon from the Advent Church. Burial was in Harmony Grove cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

The funeral of George P. Smallcon, Jr., was held this (Monday) afternoon from the home of his parents on Dennett street. Rev. Lucius H. Thayer was the officiating clergyman. Undertaker O. W. Ham was in charge of the interment in Harmony Grove cemetery.

The child died on Saturday afternoon at the age of six weeks.

A Merry-Go-Round.

A man had been sent by the house agents to take an inventory of the drawing room furniture. He was so long about his task that at last the mistress of the house went to see what was taking place. She found the man slumbering sweetly on the sofa with an empty bottle beside him; it was evident, however, that he had made a pathetic though solitary attempt to do his work, for in the inventory book was written, "One revolving carpet."—San Francisco News-Letter.

Penalty of Fame.

Gen. Nogi, of Port Arthur fame, is paying the penalty of popularity at the hands of autograph seekers. But the form which this has taken in Japan has about it a touch of sentiment, inasmuch as the relatives of soldiers who fell before Port Arthur are seeking the general's autograph inscriptions to place on the tombstones of the dead.

Unique Invention.

A German inventor has perfected an apparatus which, by easy manipulation, throws the words of an opera being sung on to the proscenium above the stage. The words appear line by line as they are sung, and there is nothing about it to disturb the spectators. The apparatus is controlled by the prompter, and is stated to be quite cheap.

What Had He to Do with It?

Young Man—I have called, sir, to request the hand of your daughter in marriage.

Old Grumbleigh—Has she accepted you?

"Yes, sir."

"Then what do you want to come round and bother me with your troubles for?"—Stray Stories.

EVERYBODY LIKES GOOD ICE

There is no longer any excuse for poor pies on your table, as you should follow the lead of thousands and use D-Zerta Quick Pudding as a filling for pies. Try this recipe:

D-Zerta Chocolate Cream Pie.

Prepare a package of D-Zerta Chocolate Pudding according to directions on package, adding one half cup of sugar. Put in crust which has been baked. Cover with meringue made with the whites of two eggs. This makes two large pies or three small ones.

All the five flavors—Lemon-Tapioca, Vanilla, Orange-Macaroni, Chocolate and Strawberry, can be used in the same way, and bananas, coconut, etc., added as desired. D-Zerta Quick Pudding is also used as a cake filling and for a pudding dessert. Simply add a quart of milk to contents of one package, bring to a boil, cool and serve with cream and sugar. Order from your grocer. 10 cents per package.

Thirty-five years ago at Chicago the Fireman's Fund honored every demand against it in full, next the Boston conflagration, followed by Seattle, Spokane, Bakersfield, Lynn and Boston, 1889, and others too numerous to mention, including Baltimore two years ago; and last but not least, San Francisco. Recognizing the responsibilities of their undertaking in the business, every obligation has been honorably and promptly met in full, the Company growing stronger through its trials.

FATE OF THE MALCONTENTS.

Fate opened a shop in a great city. One might read over the door:

"Destinies Transferred, Conditions Altered, Fortunes Reversed, Contentment Improved, Satisfaction Guaranteed."

Naturally the shop was stormed by persons who sought to have the trend of their lives changed. The remarkably small price—nothing—drew a catholic horde of patrons. The first to gain an audience with Fate was a Woman of Fashion, with sables hanging from her shoulders and her golden hair glistening with jeweled pins.

"Alas, I am so miserable! I am stifled with luxury and riches. I want something else. I want simplicity again. I want the capacity for enjoyment. I have lost my palate for appreciation. Help me!"

"What would you have me do? Whom would you like to be?"

The Woman of Fashion smiled at her inspiration.

"I would be the wife of a subway guard, a dear, little contented body who lives on duty and bargain matinees, who cheerily goes about her work. That is my idea of happiness."

"So be it. But mind, you must live in this way for one entire year."

A creature, scarcely less gorgeous but with an air of unaccustomed prosperity, appeared now. She was the most feted show girl in town. However, she complained: "Mine is a tantalizing position. I have everything in the world—jewels, automobiles, furs and adorns by the hundred. I am like the man who yearned for a yacht and, when he gained it, all the seas and rivers and lakes dried up. Have pity on me. I crave a position in society. I want to go to state dinners and dine off gold plate amid the fashionables. Give me prestige." Again Fate was obliging and whispered her warning about the one-year's time.

The next in line was the notion-counting girl, who, following the precepts of her enterprising shop, had come early to avoid the rush. She was underdressed and overdressed. A glaring purple plume swayed fitfully above her left eye.

"I am so tired of this hard work and long hours," said she wistfully. "I want something better."

"Choose for yourself," said Fate benignly. "You have great variety for selection."

"Oh," cried the girl, "make me a duchess with a grand castle and royal robes and a coronet on my head, morning, noon and night! I want to have a great big coat of arms and some little spaniel dogs."

The metamorphosis was almost instantaneous.

Fate then turned to a beautiful young woman, known as the belle of her set. She was the epitome of loveliness, grace and dignity. Yet she was disgraced by an unhappy poet.

"What a bore this all is—this adulteration," she began. "I am sorry I am so beautiful, and that the world can see nothing else in me. Believe me, I burn with an ambition for better things. I would far rather be a great singer whose voice sways the world. Oh, let me sing magnificently, Elsa, Brunnhilde, Ortrud and that sort of thing."

Scarcely had the embryo diva gone her way exulting than a fifth woman appeared. She was different. Her low-heeled boots and straight, dark hair; her unpowdered nose, her temperate figure all proclaimed a girl of balance.

"I don't know why I come," she said. "I am quite happy except—"

"Except? Pray continue, my dear young woman," urged Fate. "What is there you want especially?"

"The everlasting love of a man," replied the sensible girl.

"What sort of a man is that?" asked Fate.

"A man," continued the girl quietly, "who scolds me when I err, who soothes me when I am enraged, who comforts me when I am sorrowful, who does not bore me with meaningless caresses, who does not dazzle me with his brilliancy, yet stimulates me by his solid sense. I ask for neither a handsome man nor a man whose ugliness shocks me. This is a great deal to request; but let worldly things pass. I want this man."

Fate was perplexed, but answered: "So be it."

The year passed and when Fate returned again her door was besieged by the same impatient malcontents. The woman of fashion begged for her old condition. She said corned beef and cabbage had ruined her digestion and that folding beds were impossible. The show girl cried out against the intolerable dullness of state dinners and the tedious conversation of the fashionables. The duchess, formerly the notion-counting girl, bewailed the rigors of court life and the dubious devotion of a dissolute duke. The beautiful girl said rehearsals for an opera were more wearing than recitative and that practicing daily "rot on her nerves."

The fifth applicant alone had not returned.—Town Topics.

Too Finicky.

Prof. M. E. Jaffa, of the University of California, is conducting at Oakland a series of experiments with the object of increasing the laying power of the hen. Prof. Jaffa has already secured some remarkable laying records. In discussing these records he said the other day: "Cleanliness is a prime factor in successful chicken raising. Keep the runs clean, dry, cheerful, and your hens will do their duty by you nobly. In fact to make hens lay well, it is almost necessary to carry neatness to the finicky point—to be as finicky as the old lady with the aquarium. The old lady did not merely keep the aquarium neat—the glass spectacles, the stones at the bottom snowy—but it was said of her that every Saturday night she took the fish out and gave them a bath."

LOCAL DASHES

Another fine Sunday.
Is your garden planted?
Colds are still numerous.
April's reign will end today.
How has your incubator worked up to date?
"Who's to be Queen of the May, mother?"
Dust is till the rule rather than the exception.
The merry month of May greets us tomorrow.

The trailing arbutus is blooming late this year.
Enough rain to lay the dust for a day or two, anyway.
The date has been set for the trial of Gouin and Spring.
The needless fire alarm will always be a source of trouble.
Have your shoes repaired by John Mott, 34 Congress street.

The dog catcher will be out with his hook tomorrow (Tuesday).
Physicians say that the general health of the city is now good.
This evening at Music Hall: Annie Russell in "Friend Hannah."
Today, the last of the month, has received a baptism of showers.
The wharves are lined with men fishing for flounders and pollock.
Many Mayflower gatherers made their annual excursions yesterday.

See Annie Russell in "Friend Hannah" at Music Hall this evening.
Many of the fields and lawn are pretty gilded with dandelion blooms.
Much coal has come up from the lower harbor within the past few days.
With the coming of May, there is reason to hope for mild, Spring-like weather.
It really does not look as if Portsmouth would have to worry about a coal famine.

Portsmouthians will witness first-class entertainment at Music Hall this evening.
The Sabbaths of 1906 have certainly been blessing us with wonderfully good weather.
Many local Elks are planning to attend the annual reunion in Denver, Col., next July.
"Friend Hannah," with Annie Russell starring, will appear at Music Hall this evening.

With Skillen pitching, Dartmouth defeated the Harvard baseball team on Saturday, three to one.
Dartmouth won the two mile intercollegiate relay running championship at Philadelphia on Saturday.
If you wish to rent a Summer cottage or a town house, read the Portsmouth CHRONICLE and HERALD.
The navy yard certainly made a proud record in the matter of subscriptions to the San Francisco fund.

The biggest, best and busiest ball of the season at Freeman's Hall next Tuesday evening. Pentucket Orchestra.
The board of assessors has not yet completed the inventory of taxable property, but the members expect to do so in a short time.
Phillips Exeter lost to the Merrimack Academy baseball team on Saturday, two to nothing. New Hampshire College defeated Newmarket, fifteen to eight.

Picked up adrift, two gangs of cod nets, which the owners can have by proving property and paying charges Apply to D. E. Gilebreath, Kittery Point, Me.
The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church will be held this (Monday) evening at the home of the president, James Smith of Hill street.
WILL BE GUESTS OF LODGE
Fannie A. Gardiner Rebekah Lodge, which will observe its anniversary next Friday evening, has invited the principals of "Princess Bonnie" to be its guests on that date.

BENEFIT NEXT MONDAY
For The People Of San Francisco
BIG PERFORMANCE TO BE GIVEN AT MUSIC HALL

Next Monday evening has been selected as the date for the big benefit performance at Music Hall for the San Francisco sufferers. It has been found impossible to arrange for the performance earlier.
The P. A. C. minstrel show will be given in all its original splendor. It is intended to make it even better than when it was first produced last Spring. The members of the troupe will be assisted by two members of the already famous "Merry Maids of Modern Minstrelsy" Company of Newington.
On the ends, will be those original comedians, Horace Rowe and Frank Goodwin, both favorites with Portsmouth audiences. The former appeared in the first production of the show and made a pronounced hit.
For the olio, there will be monologs, musical sketches and comedy acts, all of headline character.

MARRIED ON SUNDAY
Wedding Of Cornelius D. Monnihan and Miss Alice Healey

At four o'clock on Sunday afternoon the marriage of Cornelius P. Monnihan and Miss Abbie Healey, two well known residents of this city, was solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.
The wedding was attended only by relatives and immediate friends.
Rev. William J. Cavanaugh performed the ceremony.
The bride was attired in a handsome gown of Alice blue Panama cloth, with hat to match. Her bridesmaid was Miss Josie Lyons, who was costumed in a dress of old rose with hat of the same. The groom was attended by John Healey of Amesbury.
After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Monnihan held a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin, 4 Atkinson street, and at five o'clock left for Newburyport, where they will reside at 12 Woodland street.
The presents received were numerous, costly and attractive, showing the esteem of friends and relatives.
The out of town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. P. J. Durgin, Chelsea, Mass.; Mrs. B. M. Healey, Chelsea, Mass.; P. J. Moran and John Healey, Amesbury.

ON MAY 21
Gouin and John Doe Will Be Arranged In Court

As already stated in these columns the trial of Joseph Gouin and John Doe will begin in superior court at Exeter on Monday, May 21.
Orders have already been received for the drawing of fourteen new jurors in this city, to report on that date. The drawings will be made tomorrow (Tuesday). Throughout the county, seventy-two new jurors will be drawn.
Probably all the jurors now on duty will be discharged and the jury-men for the murder trial selected from among those drawn in accordance with the special order.

ANOTHER 'NEW TRAIN'
Will Be Run Into Portsmouth During Coming Summer

Portsmouth gets another Summer train, one mentioned exclusively in THE HERALD a short time ago as being a possibility.
The train will run as soon as the Summer schedule is adopted and will arrive here from Boston as a local just ahead of the Portland express at 10:25 a. m. On the return trip, the train will leave this city about two o'clock. It is put on, in a great measure, to help out the Mountain train due to leave here at 1:38 p. m.

WAPPINGER CLUB
Pays Its Contribution to Tax Collector Page

An additional contribution has been received by Tax Collector Walter H. Page for the San Francisco fund, the sum of $38.50 from the Wappinger Club. This amount represents the proceeds of the benefit dance given on Friday evening.
Still another substantial contribution is $25 from Jane S. Grant.
The municipal fund is thus increased to $1845.77 and the Portsmouth total to $4069.80.
The amount of the contributions of the parishioners of the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Sunday has not been made public. Rev. Mr. Finnigan has expressed himself much pleased with the generosity of his people, but cannot as yet state the exact amount given.
It is not yet possible to announce the amount of the proceeds of the "Princess Bonnie" performances at Music Hall last week.

AT THE NAVY YARD

The arrival of stone for the completion of the quay wall is delayed by a strike in the Cape Ann quarries.
The work of discharging the schooner Governor Powers of her cargo of 2900 tons of coal was begun this (Monday) morning.
Schooner Edward H. Cole is chartered to bring 2600 tons of coal from Norfolk for the department of yards and docks.
Piling has arrived for the pier for the Topeka, to be built near the Southern's berth in the stream behind the navy yard.
The company of marines from Portsmouth navy yard, which left here for Manila a short time ago, just escaped the disaster at San Francisco, as the men left there two days before the earthquake.

POLICE COURT

In police court this (Monday) morning Thomas Lynchee and Annie Gray were up for keeping a disorderly house. The case was continued until Saturday next at ten o'clock.
Bertha Searies admitted a serious charge and her case was continued for sentence until Saturday. She was also held as a witness in the first case.

ASSISTED AT NEWBURYPORT

At the last vesper service of a series at the North Church, Newburyport, on Sunday evening, Miss Harriet Whittier, soprano, and John W. Mitchell, tenor, of the North Church quartet of this city assisted in the excellent musical program.

WILL ADMINISTER SACRAMENT

Right Rev. John B. Delaney, Bishop of Manchester, will come here some time next month to administer the sacrament of confirmation to a large class in preparation at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

THUNDER HEARD

The rumbling of distant thunder was heard this (Monday) forenoon for the first time this Spring.

OBITUARY

Myrtle Weeks Cousins
The death of Myrtle Weeks Cousins of 52 High street, this city, occurred Sunday morning at five o'clock. For seventeen years she had been a cripple, the result of a fall in early childhood. Rather more than a year ago, a surgical operation was performed which it was hoped would restore to her the use of her limbs, but it proved unsuccessful and was the cause of her early death.
During the past sixteen months she had been a great sufferer but her patience and courage through it all had been no less than heroic.
She was a baptized believer in the Advent faith and in her unselfish endurance of suffering an example to all who knew her. She was the daughter of Mrs. William G. Cousins, formerly of Dover, who survives her. She was in her twenty-first year.
Prayers will be read at the home, 52 High street, on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment will be in Dover.

Charles F. Shapleigh
Charles F. Shapleigh died this (Monday) morning at his home in North Kittery at the age of sixty-nine years, five months and ten days.

FIRST OF THE SEASON
Burdocks Have an Outing and a Election Argument

The outing season is on. The members of the Burdock Club, after much preparation for a week or more, were in their old camp at the Sagamore on Sunday, and besides a full force of members, the butters-in were numerous.
President Al Snow during the afternoon made a most stirring speech regarding the election of officers and told the "Burdies" that his long and honorable record as president of the club must be recognized when it came to a vote. He stated that he, the father of the club, did not intend to step down and out without a battle. He pictured the Burdies from their early days up to the present and predicted the extinction of the organization should he go down in defeat, a victim of the lord high executioner.

The friends of Vice President Murray demanded that Al get the hook and called for the election without further arguments from President Snow.
Twenty-five ballots resulted in a tie between Murray and Snow for president and on account of darkness and shortness of refreshments the members called it off. They will fight it out during the week in the club rooms and try to take away the authority carried by Snow for thirty years with honor.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY
And Money found on Midler's Person Was Impounded
Abra A. Midler, arrested in this city last Thursday night on the charge of larceny of $500 belonging to Moses and Harry Braun of Haverhill, Mass., pleaded not guilty in the district court at Haverhill Saturday.
The case was continued until today (Monday) for a hearing, and Judge Fuller ordered $500 that had been found upon Midler when arrested, impounded to prevent any possible attachments.
